TO DOUBLE OLD OFFER TO ALLIES

Germans Will Promise to Pay Two Thirds of Sum

PROPOSAL SUBMITTED

British Take Optimistic View, While French Fear Rupture—Has New Tax Plan.

London, March 7.—When the Supreme Council meets the German delegates tomorrow Lloyd George and Briand won't be surprised by Simons' reply to the ultimatum received Wednesday, for they have been holding private conferences with the German Foreign Minister over the week end. Instead of offering a third of that asked for under the Paris agreement, the Germans are now willing to promise two-thirds which they will endeavor to present as representing the approximate equivalent.

Whether the new offer will be considered reasonable enough to serve as a basis for compromise is a question still undecided. It is decidedly unsatisfactory to the French, but Lloyd George may succeed in his role of mediator.

Although Berlin dispatches state the government is still obdurate and unafraid of the sanctions, there is reason to believe that Simons has instructions to yield much more than he could at the previous conference. The French fear the week's conference will end abruptly with a rupture, but the British take a more optimistic view.

Probably the one feature of the Simons' reply which will be the most unsatisfactory to the British will be his disclaimer of Germany's entire responsibility for the war—a statement he must make unless he desires to bring down his government. Perhaps he will endeavor to minimize its bad effects by dragging in Russia, which has few friends now. Simons has been emphasizing in private the weakness of the Berlin Government and the danger of its collapse if it surrenders completely.

The military, economic and financial experts have been busy and their conferences have reached the stage where much more is done in private conventions than in the council chamber.

Those close to the British Government act as if the crisis were over, which means that Simons' second offer will be much more liberal than his first. America's attitude as reflected in President Harding's inaugural address may have some bearing on changes in the situation. Although America desires to keep out of European politics, it is recognized that she will have considerable to say about the economic developments on this side and particularly about trade with Germany.

At the moment the Allies seem less keen on dictating Germany's future for the next 42 years than they did a month back. It is realized now that other nations, including America, would be indirectly affected and that they might prove difficult to handle 10 or 15 years hence. Taking advantage of this feeling, Simons is expected to suggest that the reparations period be reduced materially and he will probably meet little opposition for two reasons.

First, the French already have intimated they would be satisfied with a 30 year period, and, secondly, Simons' suggestion would mean a nominal increase of the capital sum Germany would pay. He will also suggest reduction in the amount of the first few annuities. Another feature of the second proposals will be an offer to construct a large number of concrete houses in standarized parts for the devastated areas of France. This would obviate the employment of large forces of German labor on French soils, so all the houses could be built in Germany and shipped to the devastated areas, where comparatively few workmen could put them together.

A third suggestion will be a substitute for the exports tax scheme decided upon in the Paris agreement. Simons will suggest that the tax be levied on the difference between the value of German exports and imports or on some other index figure to be decided later after consultation between the Allied and German experts. As German exports have an increase value over imports the sum allocated in the reparations would increase.

If the Allies refuse to entertain these new proposals the German delegates will return to Berlin and the militarists will take charge. There are some who hope this will prove to be the case, but their number is fewer than it was a short time ago. There is too much at stake to resort to military means without exhausting every possibility of an agreement through negotiation. That is the view presented by two of the Government's strongest supporters in the Sunday press.

Last week the French expressed unbounded satisfaction with Lloyd George's handling of the Germans. Anglo-French unity was never stronger. If tomorrow's negotiations reach the period of compromise the alliance will be put to a stern test.

Colby for President in 1924 Is Seen as Wilson Program

Washington, March 7.—Bainbridge Colby is Woodrow Wilson's choice for the Democratic nomination for the presidency in 1924.

That is one answer to the query raised on the lips of so many in recent days' questioning, why Wilson elected to go into the law business with Colby.

Wilson was for Colby in the last Democratic convention, as a matter of fact, although the situation never presented an opportunity for Wilson's hand to be felt.

Of course, primarily, the association of Colby and Wilson in the practice of law would seem to be based on their unity of thought and purpose, but behind the association will be the political influences that will be later utilized to effect a paramount position for Colby in the Democratic party.

URGE HARDING TO SEND OUT MISSION

Legislative Leaders Suggest This Plan of Learning European Views

PROPOSE ROOT AS HEAD

Changes in Diplomatic Corps Held as Making Step Necessary—No Reference to Germany.

Washington, March 7.—President Harding, it was learned yesterday, is being urged to defer the adoption of a concrete program for dealing with European affairs until he can dispatch a commission to Europe which will provide him with first-hand information regarding exact conditions abroad; the attitude of indebted governments regarding the loans made to the Allies; the views of the principal powers upon an association for conference and what terms may be exacted of Germany when a separate peace treaty is negotiated.

Such a commission, it is said, will be headed by former Secretary of State Elihu Root, if it materializes, and may have as a member of Senator Knox, of Pennsylvania, a former Secretary of State, and at least one Democratic member. It is understood that Mr. Root is prepared to accept the mission if it is tendered to him.

How Mr. Harding regards the suggested venture is not indicated. Before he adopts or rejects it, he will go into all phases of it with Secretary of State Charles E. Hughes and will probably be guided in large measure by Mr. Hughes' attitude. It was intimated yesterday that Mr. Hughes also had been acquainted with the matter as a possible means of dealing intelligently with the problems which he must face as time goes on.

From all that could be learned yesterday the diplomatic enterprise originated among legislative leaders, although it has been assumed for some time that Mr. Harding, once in office, would seek some avenue of first hand information regarding the state of affairs abroad, and that he would make liberal use of the knowledge of Mr. Root and his standing in Europe to that end.

With the change in government the diplomatic corps also changes. The secretaries and attaches are protected by the Civil Service, of course, but the heads of all missions have tendered their resignations, in most instances to take effect at the pleasure of the President.

This means that Mr. Harding will soon have a group of new men representing him abroad. He could scarcely be expected to take advice from the retiring diplomats, all Democrats, and if he is to fully inform himself and his State Department staff, it will be necessary for him to go somewhat outside routine channels for his insight into foreign affairs. At least, this is advice which is being given him.

It has been suspected in some quarters that Mr. Harding has had some such project in mind as that just outlined and that the fact was responsible for his failure to declare himself more definitely in his inaugural address. As will be recalled, he confined that address to the broadest generalities when he touched upon international relationship.

The one positive promise which Mr. Harding gave the country in the course of his campaign, a promise not modified since that time, was a quick peace with Germany. He let it be understood that such a peace would come about as soon as Congress should adopt a resolution to that effect for the Executive to sign.

Yet he avoided any reference to this circumstance in his first address to the country. He commented briefly upon other phases of foreign affairs, but he made no mention of an early peace or of such processes as might be in his mind for arriving at a separate peace with the Central powers.

A complication has arisen in Congress which bears directly upon the Root proposal. The demand for disarmament inquiries which resulted in the defeat of the naval appropriation bill is expected to be renewed by Senator Borah and his supporters. This cannot be postponed unless there is a postponement of the assembling of Congress, which is generally opposed, or by some move on the part of the Executive which will deter the disarmament advocates.

These Congressional leaders who are devoting their time and interest primarily to the tariff, to taxation and other purely domestic problems want an early opportunity to bring these measures before Congress, and they will be embarassed, they fear, if a protracted fight over foreign affairs including disarmament, a separate peace with Germany and the settlement of outstanding foreign claims should develop.

Mr. Harding's friends are being urged, it is known, to give the right of way, as far as may be possible, to fiscal matters. They are being told that the country expects, and has a right to expect, action in that direction with as little delay as possible and that the people will become not merely impatient but gravely critical if months go by without some program of relief being adopted.

WOMAN KILLS HUSBAND IN ENACTING MOVIE SCENE

Sharon, Pa., March 7.—Andrew Metz, 23, of West Middlesex, is dead as the result of a shot accidentally fired late last night by his wife while the two were enacting a scene from a motion picture melodrama which they had just been witnessing.

Upon their return from the theatre Metz and his wife were discussing whether one of the scenes, which included use of a revolver, had been true to life. Metz got out his own revolver and, seated on the floor, removed the cartridges. He then handed the weapon to his wife, who impersonating a woman they had seen in the picture pretended to fire it at Metz. The episode was rehearsed several times.

When they had finished their imitations of screen actors, Mrs. Metz returned the revolver to her husband, who reloaded it. He handed the weapon back to her at her request and once more she went through the motions of the woman in the picture. Suddenly there was a report and Metz fell dead. A bullet had entered his right eye, penetrating the brain.

Mrs. Metz collapsed after the tragedy and is under the care of a physician. A report made by a deputy coroner exonerates the woman of all blame.

SHOOTS AND STABS WIFE AND 2 SONS: KILLS SELF

Worchester, Mass., March 7.—Moses Boyajian 50 years old, of 6 Linwood street, who had been absent from home about nine months, and from whom his wife was granted a divorce about a month ago, returned unexpectedly about 8 o'clock yesterday morning, according to the police, and attacked his wife and two sons with a revolver and stiletto, then fired a shot into his own head.

All were taken to a hospital, where the wife and the younger son are on the dangerous list. Boyajian died at 6 o'clock last night.

As soon as Boyajian entered the house he began shooting, slashing and stabbing. The wife, Rose, received a bullet over the right breast and was stabbed through the stomach; the younger son, Hygas, aged 21, was shot twice over the right shoulder blade, and his scalp was slashed in several places. The older son, Harry, aged 23, received a bullet wound in the left hand and lacerations of the left hand while attempting to grasp the revolver.

Lieutenant Fyrberg, of police headquarters, passing in an electric car, heard a shot and saw the elder son, covered with blood, running across the street. The lieutenant left the car and when Boyajian saw him coming he placed the revolver back of his right ear and pulled the trigger.

Elderly Woman Strapped To Bed For Two Years

Syracuse, N. Y., March 7.—When the Onondaga county grand jury resumes its investigation of the case of Mrs. Alice T. Lattimer tomorrow it is expected that Mrs. Ruth Crawford the aged woman who for more than two years was in her charge, will be at witness.

During all of the more than two years of her illness Mrs. Crawford was kept in bed with a broad web belt such as is used in strapping a trunk, kept taut across her shoulder, and throughout that time she was induced to believe that she was either in a serious condition or dying. This strap was removed two weeks ago by order of the police of Syracuse, and while the nurse was on vacation in Florida and continuously since that time Mrs. Crawford has been gaining.

Meanwhile Mrs. Lattimer is in the Onondaga County Jail, no charge having been made against her. Her lawyer has not moved to obtain her release by habeas corpus proceedings and the district attorney is waiting to see what can be developed by the grand jury.

WILSON'S HOME DRAWS MANY AS A CURIOSITY

Washington, March 7.—All day yesterday pedestrians passed the home of former President Wilson on S street. The weather was springlike and hundreds of Sunday strollers turned their steps toward this new sight of the National Capital. In the afternoon these same lined the sidewalk opposite the Wilson home in the hope of seeing the former Chief Executive at the window or witnessing his departure for the automobile drive which he takes daily with Mrs. Wilson.

The appearance of the former Chief Executive, Mr. Wilson at the windows was the signal for a demonstration.

All of the different lines of sight seeing busses in Washington have placed the Wilson home on their routes. Many busses filled with out of town visitors pass the house every day, the driver pausing momentarily in order that his passengers may get a good view of Mr. Wilson, if possible.

STRIKE VOTE BEING TAKEN IN SOUTHEAST BY MEMBERS OF RAILWAY UNIONS

Macon, Ga., March 7.—Railroad crafts throughout the Southeast, according to informations obtained last night from union sources, have started the taking of a strike vote.

It will take the entire week, probably longer, to complete the vote, it was said.

No immediate walkout on railroads, in the Southeast, in sympathy with the employes of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad, is contemplated, it is said, but the labor desires to know how the men stand for the purpose of determining future action in the A. B. and A. matter.

Atlanta, Ga., March 7.—Declaring the strike of the Atlanta, Birmingham and Atlantic Railroad employes detrimental to the public's interests, the United States Board of Mediation has tendered its services to bring about an agreement. Commissioner Chambers and Assistant Commissioner Klutt will arrive here tomorrow to begin negotiations.

MRS. G. C. ROLAND VICTIM OF FOOTPADS

Held up at Pistol's Point And Relieved of $26

ROBBERS ESCAPE

Two Colored Men Held Her up at 8 O'clock Last Night While She Was Enroute to Her Home.

Held up at the point of a pistol by two young colored highwaymen and robbed of $26, was the experience of Mrs. Grover C. Roland, of 401 South Washington street at 8 o'clock last night. The hold up occurred a few minutes after 8 o'clock directly in front of the parsonage of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, while Mrs. Roland was enroute to her home.

Mrs. Roland only a few minutes before had entered a King street store and made a purchase of some fruit. Just as she was leaving the store she noticed two young colored men standing in the doorway of a nearby grocery store. She thinks that they watched her while she made the purchase of fruit and followed her.

According to Mrs. Roland one of the men asked her the way to the Union passenger railway station and she gave them the proper directions and just then one of the men put a pistol in her face and said, "Don't say a word." Before she realized it one of the men put his hand in her coat pocket and pulled out her small pocketbook which contained two $10 bills, one $5 and one $1 and threw the pocketbook on the sidewalk and made off.

Mrs. Roland at once turned around and met Policeman C. A. Padgett whom she notified of the affair and she went to police headquarters and gave a thorough description of the men. The police combed the city in search of the highwaymen without success. It is believed that the men were strangers in the city.

One of the $10 had the edge torn and was marked with the letter "R" according to Mrs. Roland.

INTERESTING SERMON AT TRINITY M. E. CHURCH

Dr. D. H. Martin delivered a very interesting sermon at the Trinity M. E. Church last night to a crowded house. He gave an eloquent and moving description of Christ, of his nearness and omnipresence wherever two or three were gathered in His name, and portrayed the perfection of beauty in the character and personality of the Lord of Christianity. The lighter touches of the address, in the description of the famous Americans whom Dr. Martin has known, and the intimate definition of their chief characteristics kept the congregation spell-bound. Dr. Martin emphasized the fact that the leaders of American public are devout Christians. He brought home to everyone the necessity of following in the footsteps of the Master, and indicating by daily word and deed His life of service to mankind. The church choir rendered a beautiful song service at intervals during the evening.

TO-DAY'S THOUGHT. The spiritual virtue of a sacrament is like light: although it passes among the impure, it is not polluted.

St. Augustine.

A Man with a Future.

One of the leading figures of the administration at Washington, which has just passed into history, is Francis P. Garvin, the Alien Property Custodian for the last two years. For more than a year Mr Garvin has assumed, in addition to his duties as custodian, the task of leading the fight for the Department of Justice against the pernicious influences actively at work in spreading the propaganda of the Bolshevists and other anarchists in this country. That he has done his work in a masterly and efficient manner was shown conclusively in the recent testimony before the Senate Committee.

Mr. Garvin has had the training of many years back of him as a public official both in state and federal departments of justice. He was assistant district attorney under William Travers Jerome in New York, for several terms, and had entire charge of the prosecution of a number of quite famous cases including the "Patrick," "Molineaux," and "Nan Patterson" trials, all of which he conducted with distinguished ability. In 1917, General Palmer, at that time Alien Property Custodian, appointed him as Director of the Bureau of Investigation, which attained the highest degree of efficiency under his leadership. Owing to the novelty of the situation, without guiding precedent in the United States, and the strenuous efforts of the Germans to conceal and cover up their ownership of property and multifarious transactions in this country, the work of the bureau was perhaps the most difficult and complicated in any of the departments at Washington. Mr. Garvin's success was instant and conspicuous. In fact when Palmer was chosen by the president as attorney-general, his logical successor, in fact the only man in the country thoroughly conversant with the work, was Francis P. Garvin. The appointment was made, and the work carried on in the same energetic and efficient manner that had been its striking characteristic since the inception of the office.

While Mr. Garvin has served in a dual capacity, as assistant attorney-general, under General Palmer, and alien property custodian, at one and the same time, he has persistently declined to accept compensation for the two services, drawing only the salary allowed to custodian under the "trading with the enemy" act. This high conception of public duty and honor is in exact line with all of Mr. Garvin's acts during his employment at Washington.

Francis P. Garvin is still a young man. The country needs and will always need men of his type in the ranks of its leadership. We are sure that he will again be drafted into public service. His record is stainless and one of which any man might be proud. We voice in this editorial a just tribute to a staunch Democrat who has nobly upborne the banner of his party and helped to carry it in the past to merited victory. Who has been a living exemplar of its lofty principles, and who, we doubt not, will be called again, in future triumphs of the Democratic party, to take a still higher and more prominent part in the service of the people. In short, Francis P. Garvin is, beyond question, a man with a future!

For Greater Alexandria

The work of the Chamber of Commerce of the past three years speaks eloquently for those earnest workers who have had the city's welfare at heart. The war work accomplished, in the most crucial period of the country's existence, would alone justify a hearty support of the institution which organized and led the fight for liberty loans which were over-subscribed nearly double. Which co-operated with the Knight of Columbus in a tremendous and successful drive for funds. Which supervised the expenditures for War Camp Community Service. Which met the second Red Cross call for twelve thousand dollars with an offering of eighteen thousand. Which raised $6,000 for the alleviation of the deadly influenza epidemic. Which secured the establishment here of the Red Cross Sanitary Unit. Which co-operated in the Christmas Roll Calls of the same world-wide organization. Which generously installed a branch of the United States Housing Corporation in its own quarters. Which at all times has worked hand-in-hand, and day and night, with the officers at Camp Humphreys and other military posts. Which secured the appointment of an efficient food administrator, keeping the records in its own offices.

These strenuous times have passed into history. But the foregoing brief abstract of the doings of our Chamber of Commerce is eloquent in its very brevity. The days, weeks, and months spent by its self-sacrificing members in patriotic service, to the neglect and often entire abandonment of their own business, are not told, but may be imagined. The giving of their time, and the best that in them lay, surely deserves some recognition on the part of our citizenry. Most of us, alas! are well content to shift the burden of public duty onto other shoulders.

Luckily, there is always in an American community a substantial number of people who are willing to sacrifice their own interests for the public weal. This, we take it, is due to the spirit of our democratic institutions. In no other country is this spirit dominant, and to it we owe, perhaps, the unparalleled progress of city, state and nation. Our dollar-a-year men, our cabinet members, our college-presidents and professors, our public officials in almost every sphere, are those imbued with the zeal of service to one's community, one's city, one's state, one's country! The least we can do, we others, who only stand and wait, is to give them our endorsement and support, and when needed, our dollars.

If we will only do this, the Gazette predicts the future greatness of Alexandria as certain and inevitable. If we cannot, or will not, give of our time, our brains, our efforts,—let us at least join our one institution whose very essence is that of upbuilding our home town and benefiting every man, woman, and child within its limits, both now and to come. Let us go to the meetings, as members, and vote. If we are in the majority, well and good. If we are in the minority, even then let us go and vote again, till we have either changed our own views or those of our fellow-members. That is all there is to it! A meeting once or twice a month—of an hour or two! Little enough to pay for the realization of that splendid vision which should be before the eyes of every true son of Alexandria, sleeping or waking. To act or do otherwise is to be a slacker; and human speech holds not a more contemptible word.

PRAISE SUPT. OF SCHOOLS.

Alexandria, March 4, 1921.

To the Editor of the Gazette:

There seems to be general dissatisfaction with school conditions in this city, and there is a tendency on the part of some people to shift the blame on Mr. Sweeney.

Let it not be forgotten that all the strides that ever have been made in this city towards a modern school system have been made under Mr Sweeney's administration. It is not the fault of Mr. Sweeney that the schools are crowded. It absolutely is not his fault that the High School is badly in need of modern scientific laboratories. It is not his fault that for a month or so certain classes in the High School were without a teacher. Mr. Sweeney recommends the appointment of teachers to fill the vacancies, but Mr. Sweeney does not do the appointing. It is not Mr. Sweeney's fault that the school authorities have such difficulty in retaining the services of teachers, for it is not his policy which dictates the employing of teachers on as small salaries as it is possible to obtain them, thus establishing a corps of dissatisfied teachers, and not only making it necessary to employ a new corps at the beginning of each year, but also necessitating frequent changes during the school year. It was not Mr. Sweeney's fault that the High School authorities were ordered to turn their auditorium over to the use of the Commercial Department, thus depriving the students of the High School one of the few modern privileges enjoyed by students in Alexandria, and which are usually accorded to students of all first rate High School. In this particular instance Mr. Sweeney opposed the issuance of the said order, and it seems established himself in the bad graces of certain persons, which said persons are understood to be in the opposition to Mr. Sweeney's reappointment.

In Washington City former Superintendent of Schools Thurston was compelled to have the system, by just such agitation as we have here today, and the reading public know that on investigation by a congressional committee Mr. Thurston was exonerated, and the blame placed on the powers that compelled Mr. Thurston's separation from the services. There is a strong suspicion that there may be a similarity between the circumstances above cited and the circumstances now existing here. Let us see that no such injustice is done here as was admittedly done in Washington.

Let no petition carry our signatures unless we are absolutely firm in the conviction that the purpose of the petition will be for the public good, and, furthermore, that no injustice shall be done anyone by such petition.

Natives of Alexandria.

FIRST HARDINGVILLE MAKES BID FOR FAME

Hardingville, N. J., March 5.—This rural village of Gloucester county flashed into the limelight yesterday as the first town in the country to bear the name of the new President. For years this hamlet has been carrying the name "Hardingville," taken from an old family name in this region, without attracting any particular attention of without anyone suspecting that it has pre-empted the name of a future President.

Now it is to be expected that there will be a whole flock of Hardingvilles, Hardingtons and Hardingtons, following the inauguration of President Harding, but this Jersey village claims the original preemption rights to the name. It has a population of 74 souls, the majority of whom are Republicans.

It is not often that a merchant can offer an opportunity such as this. Such opportunities are rare. After the Armistice, the rate of exchange prohibited the exportation of certain fine types of leaf tobacco. We purchased this tobacco and are using it in the manufacture of "111" (ONE-ELEVEN) CIGARETTES, producing a new product—a quality product—and one that is giving exceptional satisfaction, for these types of tobacco have never previously been used in the manufacture of cigarettes selling in this country.

One-Eleven (111) 5th Avenue, New York, is the home office of The American Tobacco Company. The American Tobacco Company has been serving the public with fine tobaccos for many years. It commands the experience and skill to prepare and know good cigarettes. Do you think, Sir—The American Tobacco Company would give the address of its home office as the name of a new cigarette if it did not believe that the blend would please you?

From Grand-pa down to "Buster," these delicious meats are thoroughly enjoyed by the whole family and, like Oliver Twist, they ask for more.

Mother appreciates these meats most of all; because they are convenient to handle;—they are easily and quickly prepared;—there is no waste; and she can keep a quantity on hand for emergencies.

She knows too, that Uncle Sam's guarantee of purity is behind every can and that she pays less than pre-war prices for this nourishing canned corned beef and corned beef hash.

Insist on your dealer getting you a supply of this wholesome food. There's a legitimate profit in the sale for him (wholesale prices listed below) and a considerable saving for you.

Victim Of Irish Ambush

Kerry Commander, Lieutenant And Two Soldiers Dead After Attack

Dublin, March 7.—Brigadier-General Cumming, commanding Crown forces in Kerry, was one of the two officers killed yesterday when 500 Irish volunteers attacked an armored car and five motor vehicles in which 40 soldiers were traveling between Killarney and Buttevant. Two privates also were killed and two wounded.

The first two cars of the convoy were blown up by a mine, and a fierce battle followed which endured for two hours. The armored car finally reached Kanturk whence reinforcements were dispatched, but the attacking party escaped. Several mines failed to explode.

The woods are thick on the hillsides where the attack took place, and few of the volunteers were seen, according to official report.

Two previous attempts had been made to ambush General Cumming.

A heavy fire was opened on the convoy from high ground on both sides of the road. The driver of the first car was seriously wounded by the first volley and the car plunged into a ditch. All the soldiers went into action. General Cumming was hit in the head shortly after leaving his car and died instantly. A lieutenant also was killed.

The belief is general here that the ambush was prepared for Maj.-Gen. Sir Edward Strickland, commander of the Crown forces in Munster. General Strickland was supposed to be returning to Cork yesterday from Tralee.

There were three shooting affairs in Dublin yesterday morning. A motor car conveying four Dublin men, apparently taken for a Black and Tan car, was attacked. Two of the occupants were shot dead.

As the military was riding through Dorsett street a bomb was thrown through a shop window and a little boy was wounded. Another shooting was reported in a row in Portland street.

The Crown forces are carrying out their threat to blockade Tralee and reduce the district to submission by hunger. Two bridges were blown up by them yesterday, cutting off the town from the district which supplies provisions. There is only a few days' supply of food in Tralee.

You can stop that distressing cough—stop it quickly and surely. Foley's Honey and Tar is the best known and most successful family cough medicine on the market. It loosens the phlegm and mucous, soothes the raw inflamed surfaces, eases the soreness and gives quick relief. Contains no opiates.

NEAR EAST RELIEF FUND

Richmond, Va., March 7.—Virginia is one of the twelve states which has failed to raise its quota to provide the European Relief Council with funds to feed until next harvest time 6,560,000 starving children in eastern and central Europe.

Herbert Hoover, chairman of the Council, has just wired this information to De Soto Fitz Gerald, State Treasurer, 218 Mutual Building. The eight largest welfare organizations in the country are co-operating in the campaign under the chairmanship of Mr. Hoover.

Plans have been made at State headquarters here to complete the quota assigned Virginia within the next two weeks and put the State on an equal footing with the thirty-six which have subscribed a total of $28,000,000 to date to the cause which leading men of the country say comes before all others because it involves the saving of millions of young lives Leading newspapers have pledged their support in bringing the need of Europe's children before their readers and requesting that contributions be sent to the State Treasurer.

In making his renewed appeal to Virginia people, Mr. Hoover stresses the fact that all money contributed is spent in this country for food and medical supplies to be shipped to Europe and that $10 will keep one child fed until harvest. Expenses of distributing the food and supplies are borne by European agencies, permitting all money contributed here to be expended for the actual necessities of life for the children.

All contributions will be promptly acknowledged and "Invisible Guest" certificates sent by the State Treasurer, De Soto Fitz Gerald, 218 Mutual Building, Richmond, Va.

Mr. Hoover, in his telegram received here, declared that the campaign had resulted in an unprecedented number of small contributions all over the nation, showing the desire to help the suffering European children.

Woodrow Wilson Urges Support of His Alma Mater University of Va.

Charlottesville, Va., March 7.—Woodrow Wilson, University of Virginia alumnus of the class of '81, in one of his last unofficial acts before relinquishing the Presidency, urged alumni and friends of education to support the University of Virginia's $3,000,000 Centennial Endowment Fund which opened this week.

Mr. Wilson stressed the geographical position of the University midway between North and South, as admirably adapted for purposes of mediation between the states on either side of the Mason-Dixon line.

Armistead M. Dobie, executive director of the Centennial Endowment Fund, today made public Mr. Wilson's letter. It is as follows:

The White House,
1921.

Allow me to express my very deep interest in the efforts to collect the Centennial Endowment Fund of the University of Virginia. I should suppose that there will be a very general interest in this effort, for the service of the University of Virginia, not only to the State but to the Nation, is as well known. There are very few institutions of which it can be said, as it can be said of the University of Virginia, that two-thirds of its graduates enter some form of public service, and there are very few so admirably adapted to mediate between North and South by reason of their position and tradition. The University of Virginia is particularly adapted to play such a part and is in a very real sense a national institution.

"Hoping that the efforts to secure this fund will be abundantly successful, I am

Cordially and sincerely yours,
(Signed) Woodrow Wilson."

A. C. Billman, of Indiana, who says Tanlac is unquestionably the greatest medicine he ever heard of. "It put me back on my feet after I had practically given up all hope of ever being well again," he states.

"Tanlac is unquestionably the greatest medicine I ever heard of. After I had practically given up all hope of ever being well again, it put me right back on my feet, and I am feeling one hundred per cent better than I have for twenty years. I have gained ten pounds in weight, and every one says I don't look like the same person.

"For several months I suffered from a serious stomach disorder. I had no appetite and couldn't eat enough to keep up my strength. Very often when I sat down to a meal I would leave the table without touching anything scarcely, as I could not bear the sight of food, much less eat it.

"I was losing in weight and my friends would often ask me: "What is wrong with you? Why are you looking so thin?"

"I also suffered terribly with pains across the small of my back and over my kidneys. It was almost impossible for me to get out of bed in the morning, as my back would pain me so I would almost fall over when I would first stand up in the morning. At night my back pained me so it was almost impossible for me to sleep. I would lie first on one side and then on the other, and would roll and toss all night long. I had almost given up and thought maybe my age was against me, as I had taken so many different kinds of medicine without results.

"The first bottle of Tanlac didn't help me much, but I made up my mind to give it a fair trial. After starting on the second bottle I began to feel better. My appetite returned and it just looked like I could hardly wait for meal time to come. In fact, I was hungry all the time.

"My back and kidneys don't bother me any more and I can sleep like a log now. Tanlac has just simply made a new man of me, and any one living in this county can tell you the same thing, as everybody knows me and knows the shape I was in."

The above statement was made recently by A. C. Billman, of Ligonier, Ind. Mr. Billman has lived in Noble County all his life and is a well-known and highly-respected citizen of that county.

Tanlac is sold in Alexandria by Edgar Warfield & Co. and druggists everywhere.

Keep Your Blood Pure
Nature Will Do the Rest

Did you know that ninety per cent of all human ailments depend upon the condition of your blood?

Nature gives her warnings in various unmistakable ways, so that when the appetite fails, and you become weak and listless and a general run-down condition seems to take possession of the whole body, it is an unfailing sign that impurities will steadily accumulate until your general health will be seriously affected. You should recognize the importance, therefore, of very promptly cleansing out the system, and keeping the blood supply pure and robust.

Get a bottle of S. S. S. at your drugstore to day, and note how promptly it builds up the appetite and gives new strength and vitality. Write for free literature and medical advice to Chief Medical Adviser, 203 Swift Laboratory, Atlanta, Ga.

A PICTURE of Mother-love and a woman's quest that will strike a responsive chord in every human heart. Not a preachment but just a story of your mother and mine, simply and beautifully told, yet with one of the biggest scenes in it that the screen has ever produced—the great panic scene in the Metropolitan Opera House following the shooting of Aurora Meredith on the stage. The critics of the foremost moving picture magazines are unanimous in saying that this is one of the finest things that has ever been done in pictures. You can not afford to miss it. Now playing. SPORTS

The Dreadnaughts played the Bliss Electrical School in a basketball game to a tie, the score being 23 to 23, on Saturday night in the Armory, through an agreement between the captains another game to decide the tie has been arranged for next Saturday. Both teams are evenly matched and interesting game is expected.

Tomorrow night, Tuesday, 8.15 P. M. the Dreadnaughts play the Alexandria High School, the entire proceeds of the game go to the improvement of High School grounds. This is a cause which all interested in our school children should help and a crowd is expected at the game.

Manager Harvey C. Crump, of the Cardinal Athletic Club, had his live-wire athletes out for an all-around baseball practice yesterday afternoon. The lads worked with a will and they are sure to be in fine physical condition when they play their opening game with a well-known University team early in April.

The coming baseball season will be a busy one for the Cardinals, as many games have already been booked with high-class teams. The Cardinal Athletic Club has had baseball teams playing every year continuously since the spring of 1907, and they have played the entire seasons, too, and, no doubt, the Cardinals are the oldest sandlot baseball team in America. It is expected that Mr. F. C. Lane, editor of "The Baseball Magazine, will give his views as to whom the honor is due in the April edition of the above named magazine, as the subject has been submitted to him for consideration. It is true the Cardinals have been weakened many times by the loss of valuable and star baseball players, some of said players were the equals of any sandlotters in the world. To fill the places thus vacated it was necessary to obtain players elsewhere to keep the Cardinals in the athletic world. It is also true that Alexandria has at all times had baseball players that could play rings around any amateur combination in the country, should the home lads cease to dream of imaginary grievances, which are like a phantom ship at sea—both, in fact, are nothing. The Mighty blacksmith's helper who swings the heavy sledge hammer has to step for a rest, and had some of our young athletes done likewise, how much better it would have been for all parties concerned in Alexandria?

It is the purpose of the officers of the Cardinals to treat all baseball teams in Alexandria fair in every way, and it is no more than right that they receive the same just treatment The rivalry in baseball can be compared to business firms who are anxious to gain public support for success, and, as a rule, the merchant who can give the best bargains for the same money is the one who will attract the crowd. Likewise, the baseball team that can offer the public the most interesting games, and at the same time have a team able to give a battle royal to any visiting combination, is sure to get the baseball patronage. That is just what the Cardinals intend to do—give the Alexandria baseball fans the best baseball exhibitions that can be arranged.

LONDON RUMORS SAYS SOVIET HAS COLLAPSE

London, March 7.—A private telegram received in London yesterday, which was sent from Helsingfor at 10 o'clock yesterday morning, states "Bolshevik Government fallen." At present there is no confirmation of the report.

A dispatch to the Daily News from Geneva says that the Russian journal Cella Rossii, published at Prague had received from Reval a telegram saying that a state of siege has been proclaimed by the Soviet Government at Petrograd. Buildings and bridges are protected by mitrailleuses and all large works are closed.

Several commissaries have been massacred, the report continues, and sailors and part of the garrison have joined the workers. Kronstadt is entirely in the hands of the rebels and is cut off from Soviet Russia. The Kronstadt revolutionary committee has issued the following proclamation, the dispatch says:

"By the will of the sailors, the red guards and the workers power has been placed in the hands of a temporary revolutionary committee without a shot being fired. The workers will no longer be led away by fine communist speeches."

The fleet and the garrisons of the Konstadt forts have sworn allegiance to the temporary committee.

"AUDACITY" OF AMERICA ROUSES JAPANESE PRESS

Tokyo, March 7.—The newspapers continued Saturday to print editorial comment on the refusal of the United States to accept Japan as the mandatory for the island of Yap.

The Yorodzu assails the United States for seeking to "repudiate decisions of the league of nations, of which it is not a member," by basing its claims on statements of President Wilson, which, the newspaper assents are not corroborated by the records.

The Asahi Shimbun dwells on the "audacious attitude" of the United States.

Inaugural Talk Saved for Posterity

By Use of Combined Machines

Ten miles of thin steel wire, wound on a spool, will carry President Harding's inaugural speech to posterity, it was learned yesterday.

In the office of Representative Fordney, in the northeast corner of the House wing of the Capitol, and 250 feet away from the platform on which the President stood, were two machines, combinations of telegraphone and dictaphones, that recorded the sounds of the event.

Using these machines, two complete records of his speech, the applause, and music were obtained by F. H. Earnest and H. P. O'Reilly. Each of these contains about five miles of wire, it is said, and one will be presented to the National Museum and the other to Mrs. Harding. By running these wires through the reproducing machine five hundred years from now, Harding's full speech will be heard by those now not even born, and in conjunction with the motion pictures of the event a complete and authentic story of the event will be had.

The dictaphones plugged into the telegraphone picked up the speech that had been increased in volume by loud speaking telephones installed on the stands. These sounds coming into the transmitters activated a set of electromagnets that came into very light contact with the steel wire, one-hundredth of an inch thick, that was run quickly between them from one spool to another. These miles of wire were magnetized in such way that when the machine was reversed the sounds that went into it were reproduced accurately and distinctly.

The telegraphone, which accomplished the recording, was invented by Valdemar Poulsen, a Dane, some years ago. Although it reproduces sound as does the phonograph, it does not employ needles or wax discs. But obtains the record by magnetizing the steel wire. The dictaphone that received the sounds is called the "acousticon" and is similar to that commonly used in detective or other work.

Suffolk Federal "Dry" Officers at Wits End in Quest of "Booze" Mule

Suffolk, March 7.—Not a booze hound, but a booze mule, is what the Federal prohibition officers of this city are looking for.

It is a mystery mule. Lately, everywhere the officers, Wagner and Duncan, have located, illicit stills in this section, they have found the tracks of this little mule, who is possessed of a dainty foot.

Another startling arrangement in the manufacture of moonshine was found yesterday by these officers when tracking the mule—a still made of a fire extinguisher. There it was, making corn whisky.

On account of the fact that this particular fire extinguisher was too small to be of much use commercially, the officers decided that the copper extinguisher was being used to manufacture drink for home consumption, and the six ten gallon tin can stills, which were nearby, were to make monkey rum to sell.

Wash boilers, with the lids soldered on, thirty gallon gasoline drums, lard cans galore, oil cans and some hand-made copper stills, have all been found time and again, but this is the first instance of a fire extinguisher being used for this purpose.

COSTA RICANS ROUT 1,000 PANAMANS AT GULFO DULCE

San Salvador, Republic of Salvador, Saturday, March 7.—Costa Rican troops, attacked by Panaman forces in the region of Gulfo Dulce, on the western end of the frontier, routed the Panamanns, who numbered more than 1,000, says a dispatch from Costa Rica received by way of Nicaragua yesterday. In the Coto river region, the dispatch states, 800 Panaman soldiers, commanded by Gen. Quintero, commanded by Gen. Quintero, annihiliated a garrison of 50 Costa Rican soldiers.

Many South Americans and others are volunteering for service in a "battalion of death," being formed in Costa Rica by officers who served under the administration of former President Tinoco, according to the dispatch, which says the men are serving without pay.

FRICTION IN GERMANY DUE TO NEW DEBT PROPOSALS

Berlin, March 7.—In authoritative quarters here it is confirmed that the new counter proposals which Dr. Walter Simons, foreign minister, has submitted to the allies for discussion tomorrow are different from those he carried when he left Berlin.

This fact, which has just leaked out here, has caused friction between the Wilhemstrasse and those committees which drew up the original proposals, the latter declaring they will not be responsible for departures.

DEMAND FOR PEARLS HURTS DIAMOND TRADE

Paris, March 7.—A famous Rue de la Paix jeweler laments that the war has killed the diamond tiara. This is not due to poverty or the piety of the bereaved, but to the tremendous demand for pearls—in collars, ropes, bracelets and necklaces. The after-the-war taste is crying for pearls and platinum baubles, while plain diamonds and sapphires only jingle about to relieve the monotony. The jeweler says that women now prefer a little 100,000 franc emerald now and then to touch off the bareness of two or three yards of pearls.
